

5 Questions You Should Ask Window Film Installers

U.S. Film Crew Article (Page 1 of 3)

Summer days can get a bit too warm, glare from the sun can make it hard to look at computer screens, and windows can be an easy entry point for would-be thieves and vandals.

Fortunately, there's a simple solution to all these problems—window film.

Window film solutions have come a long way since their creation way back in 1902. Modern window film solutions are strong, versatile, and can do more than just keep the sun out of your home or office.

While you can install window film by yourself using DIY kits, it's still a very delicate process. Unless you know exactly what you're doing, you might not get the best out of your window film solution.

This is where professional window film installers come in; they will have years of experience when it comes to all things window film.

When procuring their services, however, there are few important things you need to ask them about.

1. What types of window film do you offer?

This might sound like a very basic question, but it's a very important one.

There are many different kinds of window film solutions out there and they're designed to do very specific things.

These different options include:

Security window film

These are designed to protect glass windows and doors, making them resistant to heavy impacts and protecting your property against break-ins and acts of vandalism.

While you can install window film by yourself, it's still a very delicate process. Unless you know exactly what you're doing, you might not get the best out of your window film solution.

For more information, please contact U.S. Film Crew at 412-961-TINT or visit www.usfilmcrew.com

5 Questions You Should Ask Window Film Installers

U.S. Film Crew Article (Page 2 of 3)

Solar window film

This type of film is designed to let in enough natural light while blocking out harmful ultraviolet radiation and keeping the temperature in your home at a comfortable level.

Decorative window film

Designed with aesthetics in mind, decorative window film is available in different patterns and designs.

Depending on what you want for your space, window film installers can offer recommendations that help you decide which type of window film will best suit your space.

2. How long will the installation take?

Generally, window film installation can take about a day, but can vary depending on how many windows you want to install film on.

If you're getting window film installed in your workplace, you'll want to know how long the installation will take, so you can give a timeline for them to complete the job.

You'll want the project completed as soon as possible without interfering with work.

3. What kind of warranty can I expect?

As with any contractor service, finding out what kind of warranty is being offered is vital.

A good window film installer will provide you with a comprehensive warranty for their window film services. If your window film solution doesn't deliver the promised benefits or you weren't happy with the service in general, you can get your money back.

Also, a comprehensive warranty gives you an idea of the quality of the window film installer's services, making it easier for you to put your faith in them.

If you're getting window film installed in your workplace, you'll want to know how long the installation will take, so you can give a timeline for them to complete the job.

5 Questions You Should Ask Window Film Installers

U.S. Film Crew Article (Page 3 of 3)

4. Which places need window film solutions?

Some parts of your home or office may need window film more than others, but this might not always be easy to understand unless you have extensive knowledge about window film installation.

A window film installer will help you identify which parts of your space will benefit the most from window film solutions and recommend the most suitable type of solution.

5. How can I take care of my window film?

While window film solutions are designed to be durable, you need to take proper care for them to last their lifetime.

To learn the right way to take care of window film after installation, ask the installers for advice. Being the window film experts they are, they'll give you the best tips to take care of your window film.

Experience everything window film has to offer

Window film has a plethora of benefits and a good window film installer can ensure that you enjoy all of them.

So, if you're looking for the ideal window film solutions for your home or office, get in touch with an experienced and well-reputed window installer.

A window film installer will help you identify which parts of your space will benefit the most from window film solutions and recommend the most suitable type of solution.