

4 Reasons You Should Hire a 3M-Certified DI-NOC Installer

3M DI-NOC Architectural Finishes is a vinyl film that can be applied to your home or workplace's walls, ceilings, and other viable surfaces to give them an aesthetically pleasing new look.

These finishes feature a selection of beautiful patterns, ranging from simple designs to intricate and photorealistic designs that mimic natural materials, like wood, stone, and metal.

3M's architectural finishes are a cost-effective and less time-consuming alternative to traditional home or office aesthetic upgrades that require construction. This film can also be switched out easily when you want to change up your home or office interiors.

3M DI-NOC Architectural Finishes offer many great benefits, and if you want to get the best out of them, you'll need an expert's help; this is why you'll need a 3M-Certified DI-NOC installer.

Here are 4 reasons you should consider leaving your 3M DI-NOC installation to a Certified 3M DI-NOC installer.

1. You'll get professional services every time

3M-Certified businesses must have at least one person who's qualified as a 3M Preferred Installer. Obtaining this certification is no small feat since the installer must earn the accreditation by completing a rigorous test covering their specific area of application.

For a business to be 3M-Certified, it must undergo a comprehensive interview process and on-site tests to obtain and retain its certification. The installers and the company will be reviewed annually to ensure that they're maintaining the requirements to retain their 3M Preferred and Certified status.

This process ensures that the Certified DI-NOC installers are always capable and experienced to provide you with professional and quality service every time.

3M window film and architectural finishes are widely regarded as some of the best in the market; therefore, it's important to ensure that such high-quality window film or architectural finishes are getting the right treatment and that you get your money's worth from purchase to installation.

2. You'll receive the highest quality no matter where you're located

If your home or office is located in Pittsburgh, you might be wondering if you can get the same quality of 3M architectural finishes and installation. The good news is that you can because 3M-Certified companies are located around the country.

With a network of certified installers around the USA, you can order your preferred 3M window film or architectural finishes and have peace of mind that you'll receive the best quality 3M products.

Since there are various locations to choose from, you can even purchase your product from one 3M-Certified company and have it installed by another 3M-Certified company on the other side of the country.

3. You'll be eligible for protection under 3M warranties

Just like any other product, even architectural finishes need warranties. Window films and architectural finishes are designed to last for 10-20 years (8-12 years for interior architectural film) or more if they're maintained properly, and this means that having a warranty is an important part of your purchase.

For many who are interested in 3M products, the availability of a warranty can motivate them to make the purchase. 3M products come with a guarantee that physical defects will be replaced and repaired.

While the individual company may give you guarantees, this way, you are promised that you'll enjoy the quality of a product manufactured by an international company.

4. You'll deal with people who are passionate about their work

When you're hiring someone to perform any type of work for your residence or business, you would want to hire a person who's passionate about the work they do.

You would also want to get the best possible experience—from purchase to installation—for the money you pay.

With 3M-Certified installers, the U.S. Film Crew has a fleet that's passionate and driven to give you the solutions you're searching for.
